

Featured Case:

Motorcyclist Sues GM Over Self-Driving Crash

A San Francisco motorist in a luxury Lincoln SUV was hit by a self-driving vehicle, a Cruise AV self-driving vehicle, or autonomous vehicle. The crash left the motorist with a broken back and a broken neck. Although fully autonomous vehicles are not a reality yet, some autonomous vehicles are already here.

The crash raised the question: how soon to change laws and other regulatory requirements for self-driving vehicles? The issue of the self-driving car continued the vehicle was operating under the autonomous mode.

In 2016, Tesla was the first autonomous vehicle. Tesla's self-driving mode, but not crash. A Federal investigation determined that the autonomous design was contributing to the crash. Tesla is now working on fixing the issue, raising the safety standards. How to fix the issue is still a question.

Regulators for San Francisco want the same that when operating their vehicles in the autonomous mode, the responsibility remains with the driver. To safety operate the vehicle, you must follow the safety laws. It is not an autonomous mode. It is a mode of operation. The issue is still a question. How to fix the issue is still a question.

Follow us through more updates regarding this case. We will update you as the case progresses. We will update you as the case progresses.

Phone: 415-399-1100

In This Issue:

- 1 Featured Case: Semi-Autonomous Crashes: Linda Celebrates 20 Years
- 2 Road Round-Up: January - March
- 3 TCP Annual Updates: TCP Team Update
- 4 Contact

Linda Stricker Celebrates 20 Years with The Cooper Firm

In February, Linda Stricker celebrated a big milestone—20 years working for Linda Cooper from Johnson, Cooper & Johnson The Cooper Firm, one thing has remained constant and that is Linda. Her experience with legal research has the more they have over the years. Research is the most important part of our business. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case.

Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case.

Linda began her journey in the legal industry working for a minimum amount in a business. She spent several years continuing from her degree in Marketing in a legal field that didn't really strike her. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case. Linda is the best person around to help you with your case.

We are proud to call Linda our Director of Case Impressions!

Here is a message from Linda in her own words:

"I treasure the greatest privilege, honor and blessing in my life that is to be a member of the team that supports Lincoln efforts in 'Relentlessly Pursuing Justice.' I have watched our work evolve, grow and change, and have watched the privilege of watching Linda and Susan's dedication, growth and enthusiasm with the addition of spouses and grandchildren. What a joy it has been to witness that bond of love and faith in Our Faith."

"One of the privileges of working with The Cooper Firm has been my ability to participate in several mission trips to Uganda, West Africa through our relationship with Orphan Aid Uganda. Not many employers enthusiastically allow for this extended time outside of more demands in order to travel the world as a company. The ability to have to serve those less fortunate is honored by many of us at The Cooper Firm but more than that Linda Cooper did not let me forget I am blessed. Thank you!"